B Reading Comprehension

Read the following, then answer the question:

Over the past forty years, computers and the internet have become more and more important to us. In fact, depending on computer, technology continues to grow every day. We seem to use computers for almost everything these days, in shopping, driving our car or, communicating with relatives and colleagues. This explosion in computer technology has resulted in a rush to install computers in every classroom and to wire every school to the internet. In the USA, between 1984, and 1997 alone, the number of computers In secondary schools increased to more than 8 million nits. Both educators and students alike have been forced to keep up with this new wave of technology. Teachers have found that even though they themselves are still trying to learn the most basic of computer skills, they are expected to teach students about computer knowhow.

Now, we can see that Egypt has provided the secondary school students with tablets to develop the educational process. Few people would question the role that tablets could play in education. Some educationalists declare that if the students are given the opportunity to use them properly, they will get better grades. Tablets make the classroom a better place to teach concepts and ideas that students need to become brighter and more successful adults. They enable students to keep up with the progress in modern technology around the world.

Moreover, tourism is one of the main sources of income and hard currency that -s badly needed to carry out Investment projects. When tourists are well treated, satisfied and pleased with their visits in Egypt, they will, no doubt, speak well of Egypt. The result will be that more and more tourists will come to our country, so tourists themselves can be good propaganda for Egypt.

In order to attract tourists to Egypt, tourist offices in our embassies abroad should distribute well prepared booklets and brochures that contain full and exciting information about the old Egyptian legacy and its effects on other civilization. Places of interest and services that could be offered to help tourists enjoy their tour, should also be included.

Ancient remains as well as now discoveries of antiquities should be described in an attractive manner. Moreover, art history museums as well as museums of Egyptian civilization should be set up in the capitals of European countries and America. More important still is the necessity of offering all possible facilities to tourist as soon as they set foot in Egypt. We have to be sure that tourists feel that their stay is enjoyable, comfortable and without any troubles. Tourist police should stop any nuisance that would spoil tourists' enjoyment and safety.

Read the following, then answer the question:

Over the past forty years, computers and the internet have become more and more important to us. In fact, depending on computer, technology continues to grow every day. We seem to use computers for almost everything these days, in shopping, driving our car or, communicating with relatives and colleagues. This explosion in computer technology has resulted in a rush to install computers in every classroom and to wire every school to the internet. In the USA, between 1984, and 1997 alone, the number of computers In secondary schools increased to more than 8 million nits. Both educators and students alike have been forced to keep up with this new wave of technology. Teachers have found that even though they themselves are still trying to learn the most basic of computer skills, they are expected to teach students about computer knowhow.

Now, we can see that Egypt has provided the secondary school students with tablets to develop the educational process. Few people would question the role that tablets could play in education. Some educationalists declare that if the students are given the opportunity to use them properly, they will get better grades. Tablets make the classroom a better place to teach concepts and ideas that students need to become brighter and more successful adults. They enable students to keep up with the progress in modern technology around the world.

Beside to causing various physical disabilities and psychological problems, exceed weight drastically increases a person's risk of developing a number of developing a number of non- communicable diseases like cancer and diabetes.

Obesity is a condition that is associated with having an excess amount of body fat, defined by genetic and environmental factors that are difficult to control with dieting.

There are many causes that directly and indirectly contribute to obesity. Behaviour, environment and genetics are among the main contributors to obesity. The centres for Disease Control has identified these three as the main causes of the complexity of obesity epidemic. In today's fast-paced environment, it is easy to adopt unhealthy behaviours. Behaviour, in the case of obesity, relates to food choices, the amount of physical activity you get and the effort to maintain your health.

Environment plays a key role in shaping an individual's habits and lifestyle. There are many environmental influences that can impact your health decisions. Today's society has developed a more sedentary lifestyle. Walking has been replaced by driving cars, physical activity has been replaced by technology and nutrition has been overcome by convenience foods.

Science shows that genetics plays a role in obesity. Genes can cause certain disorders which result in obesity. However, not all individuals who are predisposed to obesity become affected by obesity. Research is currently underway to determine which genes contribute most to obesity.

B Reading Comprehension

Read the following, then answer the question:

There is no doubt that Egypt has every reason to be proud of its ancient civilization that has yielded wonderful remains and monuments. These have captured people's admiration and high appreciation everywhere all over the world. Moreover, tourism is one of the main sources of income and hard currency that -s badly needed to carry out Investment projects. When tourists are well treated, satisfied and pleased with their visits in Egypt, they will, no doubt, speak well of Egypt. The result will be that more and more tourists will come to our country, so tourists themselves can be good propaganda for Egypt.

In order to attract tourists to Egypt, tourist offices in our embassies abroad should distribute well prepared booklets and brochures that contain full and exciting information about the old Egyptian legacy and its effects on other civilization. Places of interest and services that could be offered to help tourists enjoy their tour, should also be included.

Ancient remains as well as now discoveries of antiquities should be described in an attractive manner. Moreover, art history museums as well as museums of Egyptian civilization should be set up in the capitals of European countries and America. More important still is the necessity of offering all possible facilities to tourist as soon as they set foot in Egypt. We have to be sure that tourists feel that their stay is enjoyable, comfortable and without any troubles. Tourist police should stop any nuisance that would spoil tourists' enjoyment and safety.

B. Reading Comprehension (8 Marks)

2. Read the passage and the answer the questions: (8 Marks)

A new British medical instrument is about to change dramatically our ability to recognise disease hidden inside the body. It is called the magnetic scanner, and it gives information about the body which current machines, such as the brain scanner and the more recent body, scanner, cannot provide. And unlike existing machines the new machine does not use X-ray radiation waves, which makes it much safer for patients.

Unlike existing scanners, a magnetic scanner can show the side or the back of a suspect part of the body. Used on, for example, a lung with suspected damage, it can turn the image of the lung to give a series of different views. The image is not simply worked out in the computer's "imagination"; the magnetic scanner actually examines every side of the lung.

When examining the softer part of the body with existing scanners, doctors frequently have to use a "contrast medium" to make a muscular organ show up to X-ray waves, the usual "contrast medium" given to patients before a stomach X-ray scan takes place is harmless, but for some brain-scans so that it passes into the brain, this is unpleasant and painful and it can be dangerous. The magnetic scanner needs no "contrast medium".

The new machine can also see in greater detail than ever before. Growths of all kinds show up clearly on the brain and so do the dead patches which are the signs of the disease, multiple sclerosis. Until now patients complaining of double vision or an inability to control their muscles from time to time could be suffering from multiple sclerosis or, equally, from some much more easily cured disease and a brain scanner could not distinguish between these with certainty. The doctor can now definitely say whether or not cancer or multiple sclerosis is present. Previously, these diseases have been missed and patients have been given false information about their health. The technique is still improving with great speed: pictures produced a couple of years ago look very simple compared with those of today.

- Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

- What does the new magnetic scanner machine do?
 - It can look right through a diseased part of the body.
 - It uses a computer to "imagine" different views of the body.
 - It sends waves round the diseased part of the body.
 - It looks at a diseased part of the body from all directions.
- What disadvantage do existing machines have?
 - Patients need an injection before they are used.
 - The X-ray waves are sometimes painful.
 - The contrast recorded are too strong.
 - It is often necessary to use a contrast medium.
- In what way is the new machine an improvement?
 - It can cure some diseases much more easily.
 - It can show all the details of a diseased part of the body.
 - The technique's involved can be learnt quickly.
 - It will never give a double view.
- The machine is useful in identifying the disease, multiple sclerosis because it shows

a. cancer-like growths.	b. dark spots in the eyes.

B: Reading Comprehension (8 Marks)

2. Read the passage and the answer the questions: (8 Marks)

Different Colours can affect us in many different ways; that's according to Verity Allen. In her new series "Colour me Healthy", Verity looks at the ways that colours can influence how hard we work and the choices we make. They can even change our emotions and even influence how healthy we are. "Have you ever noticed how people always use the same colours for the same things?" says Verity.

"Our toothpaste is always white or blue or maybe red. It's never green. Why not? For some reason we think that blue and white is clean, while we think of green products as being a bit disgusting. It's the same for businesses. We respect a company which writes its name in blue or black, but we don't respect one that uses pink or orange. People who design new products can use these ideas to influence what we buy."

During this four-part series, Verity studies eight different colours, two colours in each programme. She meets people who work in all aspects of the colour industry, from people who design food packets, to people who name the colours of lipsticks. Some of the people she meets clearly have very little scientific knowledge to support their ideas, such as the American "Colour Doctor" who believes that serious diseases can be cured by the use of coloured lights. However, she also interviews real scientists who are studying the effects of green and red lights on mice, with some surprising results.

Overall, it's an interesting show, and anyone who watches it will probably find out something new. But because Verity goes out of her way to be polite to everyone she meets on the series, it's up to the viewers to make their own decisions about how much they should believe.

2. Read the passage and the answer the questions: (8 Marks)

Pollution occurs when pollutants contaminate the natural surroundings; which brings about changes that affect our normal lifestyles adversely. Pollutants are the key elements or components of pollution which are generally waste materials of different forms. Pollution disturbs our ecosystem and the balance in the environment. With modernization and development in our lives, pollution has reached its peak; giving rise to global warming and human illness.

Pollution occurs in different forms; air, water, soil, radioactive, noise, heat and light. Air pollution is the most prominent and dangerous form of pollution. Excessive burning of fuel releases a huge amount of chemical substances in the air every day; these pollute the air.

Release of such hazardous gases into the air causes global warming and acid rain; which in turn have increased temperatures, erratic rains and droughts worldwide; making it tough for the animals to survive.

Water pollution occurs due to several factors; the industrial wastes dumped into the rivers and other water bodies cause an imbalance in the water leading to its severe contamination and death of aquatic species. If you suspect that nearby water sources have been contaminated by a corporation, then it might be a good idea to hire an expert to see your options. Soil pollution occurs due to incorporation of unwanted chemicals in the soil due to human activities. Use of insecticides and pesticides absorbs the nitrogen compounds from the soil making it unfit for plants to derive nutrition from. Release of industrial waste, mining and deforestation also exploit the soil. Since plants can't grow properly, they can't hold the soil and this leads to soil erosion. Noise pollution is caused when noise which is an unpleasant sound affects our ears and leads to psychological problems like stress, hypertension, hearing impairment, etc. It is caused by machines in industries, loud music, etc.

B: Reading Comprehension (8 Marks)

2. Read the passage and the answer the questions: (8 Marks)

Let children learn to judge their own work. A child learning to talk does not learn by being corrected all the time: if corrected too much, he will stop talking. He notices a thousand times a day the difference between the language he uses and the language those around him use. Bit by bit, he makes the necessary changes to make his language like other people's. In the same way, children learning to do all the other things, they learn to do without being taught - to walk, run, climb, whistle, ride a bicycle - compare their own performances with those of more skilled people, and slowly make the needed changes. But in school we never give a child a chance to find out his mistakes for himself, let alone correct them. We do it all for him. We act as if we thought that he would never notice a mistake unless it was pointed out to him, or correct it unless he was made to. Soon he becomes dependent on the teacher. Let him do it himself. Let him work out, with the help of other children if he wants it, what this word says, what the answer is to that problem, whether this is a good way of saying or doing this or not.

If it is a matter of right answer, as it may be in mathematics or science, give him the answer book. Let him correct his own papers. Why should we teachers waste time on such routine work? Our job should be to help the child when he tells us that he can't find the way to get the right answer. Let's end all this nonsense of grades, exams, marks. Let us throw them all out, and let the children learn what all educated persons must someday learn, how to measure their own understanding and know what they know or do not know.

Let them get on with this job in the way that seems most sensible to them, with our help as school teachers if they ask for it. The idea that there is a body of knowledge to be learnt at school and used for the rest of one's life is nonsense in a world as complicated and rapidly changing as ours. Anxious parents and teachers say, "But suppose they fail to learn something essential, something they will need to get on in the world?" Don't worry. If it is essential, they will go out into the world and learn it.

- Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

- What does the author think is the best way for children to learn things?
 - By making mistakes and having them corrected.
 - By listening to explanations from skilled people.
 - By asking a great many questions.
 - By copying what other people do.
- What does the author think teachers do which they should not do?
 - They point out children's mistakes to them.
 - They encourage children to copy from one another.
 - They allowed children to mark their own work.
 - They give children correct answers.
- The passage suggests that learning to speak and learning to ride a bicycle are
 - not really important skills.
 - basically the same as learning other skills.
 - basically different from learning adult skills.
 - more important than other skills.
- Exams, grades and marks should be abolished because children's progress should only be estimated by
 - parents
 - educated persons
 - the children themselves
 - teachers
- Concentrating adults children's learning.
 - improve
 - hinder
 - enhance
 - develop
- The writer thinks that should correct the exam papers.
 - schools
 - students
 - instructors
 - teachers
- What does the underlined word "rapidly" mean?
 - slowly
 - frequently
 - expressively
 - quickly
- Choose a suitable title for the passage.
 - New teachers
 - New learning
 - New schools
 - New age

2. Read the passage and the answer the questions: (8 Marks)

Through a series of experiments an American scientist has obtained an understanding of the social structure of the most complex of ant societies. The ants examined are the only creatures other than man to have given up hunting and collecting for a completely agricultural way of life. In their underground nests they cultivate gardens on soil made from finely chopped leaves. This is a complex operation requiring considerable division of labour. The workers of this type of ant can be divided into four groups according to size. Each of the groups performs a particular set of jobs.

The making and care of the gardens and the nursing of the young ants are done by the smallest workers. Slightly larger workers are responsible for chopping up leaves to make them suitable for use in the gardens and for cleaning the nest. A third group of still larger ants do the construction work and collect fresh leaves from outside the nest. The largest are the soldier ants, responsible for defending the nest.

To find out how good the various size groups are at different tasks the scientist measured the amount of work done by the ants against the amount of energy they used. He examined first the gathering and carrying of leaves. He selected one of the size-groups, and then measured how efficiently these ants could find leaves and run back to the nest. Then he repeated the experiment for each of the other size groups. In this way he could see whether any group could do the job more efficiently than the group normally undertaking it.

The intermediate-sized ants that normally perform this task proved to be the most efficient for their energy costs, but when the scientist examined the whole set of jobs performed by each group of ants, it appeared that some sizes of worker ants were not ideally suited to the particular jobs they performed.

determined to be there in time. She would never forgive herself for missing the lecture. She had been an admirer of the artist's work since she was a child.

The next morning, she slept through the alarm bell and woke up at 8:30. She was not used to rushing and everything went wrong. At last, she was ready, and rushed out to catch a bus. She jumped on the first one. She looked at her watch, but it was not there.

She must have forgotten to put it on in her rush. When she arrived there, she hurried to the lecture hall. She was astonished to find that the doors were locked. She looked round to find someone, and saw a clock which said half past seven. "I can't understand it"! she cried out. "Nobody's here and the clock is slow!" Then she suddenly remembered. Her alarm clock had stopped the day before and she must have forgotten to reset the hands. "This is the first time I'll have heard the beginning of a lecture," she said to herself, laughing.

B: Reading Comprehension (8 Marks)

2. Read the passage and the answer the questions: (8 Marks)

The electronic revolution has led to astonishing results. The computer and the internet have changed our way of living. We can easily communicate with anyone all over the world, and we spend the time we like to discuss points of view with others and come to decisions. All this happens at the same time.

Smart cars are about to be manufactured. When we drive a smart car, the computer will tell us about the location and the right directions to our destination and avoiding traffic problems and jams. There will be a system that enables us to be at certain distance from the car in front. This will help to lessen accidents.

We needn't go shopping. We can shop while we are at home using our computers. We just order our needs and pay for them by credit cards. Instead of fighting our way to work every morning through the traffic, we can stay at home and start our work at home by pressing few buttons on our computers and easily carry out all our communications and come to the required decisions. Sooner or later, there will be no offices or office work.

B: Reading Comprehension (8 Marks)

2. Read the passage and the answer the questions: (8 Marks)

There aren't many qualities that are true of all life on Earth, but the need for water is one of the most important of them. It's in all living things, whether they live at the bottom of the ocean or the driest desert. Water made life possible on Earth. Because of this, astro-biologists (scientists who search for life on other planets) think our best bet for finding life is to search for water.

In a gallon of average ocean water, there is about one cup of salt. But it does vary. The Atlantic Ocean is saltier than the Pacific Ocean, for instance. Most of the salt in the ocean is the same kind of salt we put on our food: sodium chloride. The saltiest water in the world is found in Antarctica in a small lake called Don Juan Pond.

Usually when solids form, atoms get closer together to form something denser. This is why most solids sink in water. But solid water, or ice, is actually less dense. This is unusual. The water molecules form rings when water freezes. All that space makes ice less dense. This is why it floats. This is great because ice floating on top of a body of water lets the rest of it stay liquid. If ice sank, whole oceans could freeze solid!

2. Read the passage and the answer the questions: (8 Marks)

On leaving, Mrs. Magda gave last minute instructions to the new baby-sitter, a young girl of seventeen whose main work was to look after the baby. The girl had never done this work before and Mrs. Magda was a little bit anxious. "Make yourself comfortable, Soha." Mrs. Magda said. "I've prepared a tray of food and fruit for you. It's on the table. You can, of course, listen to the radio or watch the television, but don't have it on too loud because it might wake our little baby. Sound moves terribly in this house. If the baby wakes up, go to his room and stay with him there until he goes back to sleep. If he cries, try to pacify him and give him a small toy in his hand. Anyway, he's two years old, so you shouldn't have any trouble. My husband and I will be back home at about five o'clock. I don't want to go out today but I don't want my dentist to blame me again for neglecting my teeth." Mr. Kamal and his wife Magda returned rather later than they had expected. They heard the sound of T.V. A light was still on in the living-room. The little baby was crying loudly. His face was covered with tears. Mr. Kamal switched off the television. Once there was a wise and brave king who lived peacefully in his kingdom, and he dealt his people as if they were his big family. But the king of a neighboring country wanted to invade the kingdom and exclude the wise king out of his land. Battle after battle the wise king led his brave army against his foes, but the army had been beaten, and he was forced to hide in woods in lonely places with few of his loyal men.

One day, he lay down on the ground under a rude shed, he felt tired, sick with broken heart and ready to give up all hope. It seemed to him that there was no use for him to do anything more. But he saw a spider ready to weave her web. She toiled slowly with great care and tried to throw a thread from one beam to another, and six times she failed but she didn't lose hope with six failures and she tried the seventh.

The king forgot all his trouble when he watched the spider swing herself and carried out her duty successfully. He rose, called his men to tell them about his plans and sent them with messages of cheer to his disheartened people, and then he led a battle and at last he was able to restore his land. Feeling grateful to the spider, he made a law that none would ever hurt a spider. And the lesson that the little creature had taught the king was never forgotten. We can learn from little creatures whatever small they are.

B: Reading Comprehension (8 Marks)2. Read the passage and the answer the questions: (8 Marks)

A wise man, who was travelling in the mountains, found a valuable stone in a river where he had stopped in order to catch fish to eat. The next day, the man met another traveller who was poor and hungry. The wise man opened his bag to show kindness. The hungry traveller saw the valuable stone and asked for it. The man happily didn't hesitate to give it to him. The traveller left knowing that the stone was so valuable that he would be rich for the rest of his life. But a few days later, and to the wise man's surprise, he returned and gave the stone back to the wise man. "I've been thinking about the whole matter since the day you gave me that valuable thing," he said, "In fact I know how valuable this stone is, but I'm giving it back to you in the hope that you can give me something even more valuable. Can you give me what you have that made it possible for you to give me the stone?"

It's not materialistic things that people have that make them rich, but it's abstract things that make us have rich souls. When we give more than we take, we build a bridge for life to cross on and avoid drowning into the evil river.

Reading (8 marks)

2) Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer:

Many people in our society don't have the minimal knowledge of awareness of health care. This is a great problem because they can't bear the responsibility to stay healthy and aren't able to help their family members in the time of crises, either. So, It's the role of aware people to persuade them to start learning about such issues, like boosting their immune system. Some people's immune system work better than other people's. We all want our immune system to be strong so we can stay healthy. We can boost our immune system by eating a lot of fruit and vegetables with green leaves.

Fitness and health seem to be the same for everyone, but they have two different meanings. Fitness is the physical ability to perform work, sports, etc. while health is a condition in which the body should have resistance capacity from all illnesses and all parts of the body should work well without any problem. Your body should possess both fitness as well as health.

Health can be maintained by a proper diet, exercise and hygiene in which we must wash our hands before meals. To keep your body healthy, you need to do proper exercise. Usually, Sportspeople have a fit body. They shape their body in such a way that it will be fit for their sport. But coming to healthy body is just a matter of controlling weight and making your body immune to diseases.

For a healthy and fit body walking is very good exercise which helps in burning the excess fat in your body. A fit body doesn't mean that it should look good from outside.

A fit and healthy body should be physically active and energetic and smart enough to accept any tasks given to them.

Due to more demand for a fit and healthy body, many gyms and workout centres are opened. To maintain a healthy and fit body, This requires self-control and well determination. Many factors can divert us from achieving our goal of having a fit and healthy body. But try to focus on it as we all know that "Health is wealth".

Part Two: Reading (8 marks)

3- Read the following passage, then answer the questions: One mark each

Today, millions of people want to learn or improve their English but it is difficult to find the best method. Is it better to study in Britain or America or to study in your own country? The advantages of going to Britain seem obvious. Firstly, you will be able to listen to the language all the time you are in the country. You will be surrounded completely by the language wherever you go. Another advantage is that you have to speak the language if you are with other people. In Egypt, it is always possible, in the class, to speak Arabic if you want to and the learning is slower.

On the other hand, there are also advantages to staying at home to study. You don't have to make big changes to your life. As well as this, it is also a lot cheaper than going to Britain but it is never possible to achieve the results of living in the UK. If you have a good teacher in Egypt, I think you can learn in a more concentrated way than being in Britain without going to a school.

So, in conclusion, I think that if you have enough time and enough money, the best choice is to spend some time in the UK. This is simply not possible for most people, so being here in Egypt is the only viable option. The most important thing to do in this situation is to maximize your opportunities: to speak only English in class and to try to use English whenever possible outside the class.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

1- This text is mainly about how to

- a) adapt to life in the UK
- b) travel easily from the UK to the USA
- c) use English in real situations
- d) improve English whichever method you choose

2- According to the passage, going to Britain gives you an opportunity to

- a) be exposed to English all the time
- b) use English whenever possible in class
- c) pay less money to acquire language
- d) gain the American as well as the British accent

3- The underlined word "viable" means

- a) difficult
- b) cheap
- c) applicable
- d) old-fashioned

4- According to the passage, staying in Egypt gives you the opportunity to

- a) earn more money through teaching a language
- b) achieve the results of living in the UK
- c) keep your lifestyle while learning English
- d) make big changes to your life.

5- According to the passage, to spend some time in the UK you must

- a) maximize your opportunities b) speak only English in class
c) have the strong will to do so d) be able to afford the expenses.

6- The writer of the passage thinks that it's still a good option to stay home because you

- a) don't have to go to school
b) can speak Arabic in class
c) can achieve the results of living in the UK
d) can find a good teacher

7- Based on the passage, The advantages of going to Britain seem

- a) confident b) diffident c) resident d) evident

8- Which of the following is true according to the passage?

- a) Few people can spend some time in the UK.
b) Finding out how to learn English is easy.
c) English is a taboo in the Egyptian classes.
d) Your native language will surround you in Britain

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:8 marks

The stars are beautiful in the night sky. They are far away, farther away than most people can imagine. Even though they are light years away, they can still light up the sky. For thousands of years, people have been interested in stars. They have been used as fortunetellers, calendars and maps. Travellers often used the stars to help them find their way.

Before there was electricity, the stars and moon were the brightest things in the night sky. People spent hours staring up and wondering what the little, twinkling lights were. Back then, the stars were easier to see because there weren't any other lights at night. Not many ancient people realised that the sun was a star. The sun and moon were thought of as father and mother of earth in some ancient cultures. The stars were thought of as lesser gods or the souls of people who had died.

Greek philosophers, 2300 years ago, started to try and unravel the mystery. A man named Anaxagoras thought that the sun was a giant ball of metal burning in the centre of our universe. He was thrown in jail and sentenced to death because this idea conflicted with people's religious beliefs. Even though, people did not stop trying to understand the sun. Scientists still study it today. Large telescopes take pictures of the sun almost every day as we try and learn more about it.

Read the following text , then answer the questions :-

The human body is like a machine that is moving and working all the time. All machines need fuel to give them energy. The fuel for the human body is food and most of the energy comes from two substances in our food, they are carbohydrates and fats . Carbohydrates are found in food like potatoes, bread, rice, wheat, corn, and sugar. Fats come from food like cheese, butter, oil and meat.

Energy in food is measured in calories. For example, an apple has about 40 calories ,an egg has about 80, a fresh date has 15, and a tomato has around 12. Carbohydrates and fats have a lot of calories. For instance, a tin of soft drink , which contains a lot of sugar , has 145, a piece of Arab bread has 165, and only one spoonful of cooking oil has 120 calories. You need about 40 calories a day for each kilo that you weigh. So if you weigh 60 kilos, you will need about 2400 calories per day . If a person eats more calories than he /she needs, his/ her body stores the extra calories as fat. A person who gets all the calories he/ she needs in his/ her meals but in addition drinks only one tin of soft drink a day may gain five kilos per year .

Unfortunately, food which contains carbohydrates is usually cheaper than other food and it is often convenient and attractive . All 'junk food' contains lots of carbohydrates and fats . If your diet contains a lot of junk food, you will probably get fat .

(2) Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer:

Should we work all the time without having rest or entertainment? The answer is that we can't go on working stopping. From time to time, we should stop to have some rest and some recreation to have fun. If we didn't, we could make mistakes and our work might get worse.

An overworked person may end up by losing their ability to think clearly and by having no energy to go on working. Sleep is one way by which we can renew our energy. Sports and games are also important for brainworkers, who stay in closed offices and don't have a good chance to exercise their muscles. Swimming, walking and other outdoor activities are excellent and may very good for all people, so we shouldn't waste our weekends. People make full use of them by being in the open spaces. Having forgotten all about our work and the worries of life, we can then enjoy ourselves to the full and return the next day to work with our energy fully renewed. Change has a magic effect on man's health and his work.

Only clever people are those who can make a balance between their work and their personal lives. They are hardworking when they do their jobs and they live the happiest moments when they aren't working.

B . Reading (8 marks)

Read the following passage then answer the questions; (8 marks)

Noha doesn't like to ask people for help, but it is hard for her to perform daily activities on her own. She is almost 13, yet she is no larger than a five-year-old girl. Noha has trouble keeping her balance and can't walk very far. When she uses a wheelchair, she can't push it herself. Fortunately, Noha has a wonderful service dog named "Kemo" .

A service dog is a dog that has been trained to assist someone who has a physical problem. Kemo lets Noha lean on him when she walks. He also pulls her wheelchair and turns lights on and off. When Noha drops something, Kemo picks it up. He even pulls her socks off at night.

Kemo also helps Noha with everyday tasks at school. He carries her books from class to class in a special backpack. He puts Noha's completed assignments in her teachers' homework trays. In the lunchroom he throws away her trash. Besides making Noha less dependent on other people, he helps her lead a happy life. Noha's classmates flock around Kemo like geese around food. This has helped her make friends.

Kemo also helps Noha be more active. With his aid, she raised over $500 in a walk-a-thon for her local humane society. Because of Kemo, Noha doesn't have to ask people for help. Kemo brings her closer to other kids. And he even helps her contribute to her community.

2. Reading Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

While technology is taking control steadily over individuals' lives, the reading habit is fast vanishing in thin air, TV and silver screen are filling the minds of modern youth, taking the majority of their free time. We have to think seriously about how the growing generation will find time to read. Videos and Television are responsible for the declining interest in reading among youth. They do nothing to build up reading skills. If the children's time is devoted to reading the population would be better educated. The problem is that many children read very slowly. It is hardly surprising that such children declare that they find reading boring and prefer to watch television. Their difficulty isn't reading the words, it is interpreting them, they need to be able to read fast enough to feed their mind's hunger for a story, only by reading daily, a child will be an independent reader. Parents need to be convinced of preventing their children from wasting their time. Without the television child is likely to turn books for entertainment

2- Read the following passage and then answer the questions: (16 M)

The internet has developed to a great extent. Some levels of that development are scary. It became very much similar to our real life. On that virtual world, you can make friends, meet people from all over the world, do business, do banking, advertise products or do shopping. We can also easily get government services that used to take much time and tiring effort. Communication through social media apps has become easy. We can now congratulate and console others online. We can send them voice notes, video messages or even talk to them live from any spot on earth.

On the other hand, it is like everything in our life, can be a blessing or a curse. A lot of teenagers suffer from loneliness, anxiety and sometimes depression and that may make them subject to serious problems while surfing the net. For that, parents should keep an eye on their children's activities on the internet. They must know who they are talking to and with whom they share their personal information to be safe and secure while using the internet otherwise they may face serious problems like playing dangerous games online or being victims to scam. Moreover and the most dangerous risk, they can be blackmailed by using secrets they once shared with someone online. We must all be aware of all kinds of problems we may face online.

2- Read the following passage and then answer the questions: (8 M)

Isaac Newton, a mathematician, physicist and astronomer, was born in a small English village on 4th January, 1645. He was more interested in books than the family business of farming. He was sent to a grammar school, which enabled him to then go to university at Trinity College, Cambridge. He studied the scientific and philosophical writers that were revolutionizing the world of learning and was rewarded with a professorship at the university. It was at Cambridge that Newton produced most of his famous works. In his most influential book, Mathematical Principles of Natural Philosophy, he described his three laws of motion and the law of gravity.

His law of gravity explained what had been a mystery to the astronomers of the day: how planets stayed in orbit and did not just spin off into space. Mathematical Principles of Natural Philosophy is generally accepted as the foundation of modern physics, but Newton's fame does not rest on one book. Newton dominated the scientific world during his life. Newton built the first reflecting telescopes, became a member of parliament, was the warden of the Royal Mint, and was elected president of the Royal society, the world's oldest scientific academy. In 1705, he received a knighthood for his services to knowledge, becoming Sir Isaac Newton. Newton lived a long life, dying at the age of 84 on 20th March. He was obviously a genius.

2-Read the following passage, then answer the questions

Our home is usually our favourite place to spend time in. However many accidents occur at home. There are dangerous things in the house and we should be aware of them. Thus we can avoid unnecessary pain our injury. Electricity runs many of our home appliances. It is a very useful thing. it is also a very dangerous thing if used carelessly , for it can kill. Electrical sockets and power points are to be handled with utmost care. Young children should never be allowed to go near them. Unless we are very sure of what we are doing, repairs should only be done by a competent electrician. It is only too easy to get electrocuted. Old or faulty appliances should be discarded. If used, they are likely to start a fire somewhere or kill someone who touches it . The kitchen has many dangerous things. Sharp knives can draw blood, mishandled gas cylinders can explode, hot water can scald and stoves can cause nasty burns. Flies and rats can contaminate food .Thus the kitchen is not a place to be careless in. if we are careful and know how to handle things there , then the chance of an accident occurring is lessened .The biggest danger in a bathroom is when the floor is slippery with water or soap . I have heard of many incidents of people, especially old folks , falling in the bathroom . Sometimes the fall is fatal. Often it leaves the victim bedridden. Utmost care is needed here .Finally the medicine cabinet should be inaccessible to young children. Drugs and pills can look like sweets to these young ones .If taken, the consequences can be disastrous. Other dangers do exist. It is up to us to watch out for them.

2. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

The neighbour closest to my house are my favourite people. The man is a retired army officer and his wife is still working for the nearby university. They are very hospitable and usually invite friends to lunch. It is particularly enjoyable to wake up on a Friday morning to the sound of their music playing which are really quite artistic. However, I also love to hear them laughing when they make a mistake in their music playing. Besides music, carpentry is still the man's main interest, and most days he practices his hobby in his workplace in the garden, making an artistic piece of furniture.

My neighbours are ideal to live next door because they can be very helpful if I need them. I respect them as they never interfere in my private life and I behave with them in the same way. We have helped each other with numerous emergencies such as fire and car accidents. We also cooperate with each other in little ways such as bringing in the mail when one of us is away. We sometimes meet when they invite me over to coffee, with some of their friends who are usually very interesting people; poets, painters, professors and other lively persons whom I enjoy meeting. Sometimes we go out together to share some special occasions such as the 6th October, when we watch the fireworks display. Apart from this, we simply live next door to each other peacefully, side by side.

Egypt's Decent Life initiative "Hayah Karima" aims at providing a better life for more than half the country's population . President Al-Sisi earlier said that " the Egyptian countryside will be transformed in three years' time ." The initiative aims at improving standards of living , infrastructure and services and targets 58 percent of Egypt's population . The UN considers this initiative to be one of the best in applying programs for sustainable development worldwide, based on international standards for fighting poverty and gender equality . The Decent Life initiative dates back to 2019 when the ministry of Social Solidarity was put in charge of developing Egypt's poorest 1,000 villages where 10 percent of the population was living below the poverty line . Out of the initial 1,000 villages , 143 in 11 governorates became part of the project's pilot phase that is now 96 percent complete. Work on the 143-village pilot phase , covering an estimated 4.5 million citizens , Al-Sisi decided to expand the initiative to include all the country's 4,658 villages . The budget of the Decent Life initiative is estimated at LE 700 billion .

It is worth mentioning that this initiative has contributed to modifying the negative impacts of COVID 19 through improving the standards of living conditions of the most in need groups . The goals of this initiative are to be achieved through providing decent housing , providing water and sanitation for deprived families, providing medical and educational services , and establishing micro-projects for those most in need .

2. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

I'm almost 19 years old, and I finished my first year of university. I'm currently on holiday, and I have a lot of free time. Having free time is nice, but the problem is that when you are a student, you never have money. And when you have a lot of free time, but you don't have much money, it can get boring.

Every morning I go to the gym, and I read in the afternoons. But I still have a lot of free time.

Going to the gym takes me about two hours, including the road time and the post-gym shower.

And I usually read for one hour.

Another activity that I do is watch documentaries. I study history, and I love historical documentaries. I learn a lot from them. I watch documentaries for one and a half hours four or five times a week.

But those activities are a small part of my day. When I'm not at the gym or reading, I get bored, and I often play video games for hours. I enjoy playing video games, but I don't think it's a productive activity. When I play for a long time, I feel bad. I'd like to find more productive activities to do, but it isn't easy. I live in a small town, and there aren't many things to do. Do you have any suggestions? What do you do with your free time?

2- Read the following passage then choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d: (8 Marks)

It's a fact that women have made great achievements throughout history as well as men. Men have invented a lot of things: the alphabet, machines, rockets and so many other beneficial things. But historians now agree that women have invented a very thing which has changed history. They invented agriculture as a result; they began to settle down in one place. Before the invention of agriculture, men were hunters. They went through forests hunting for their food every day. Sometimes they killed animals, sometimes animals killed them. Life was quite difficult and serious for them. Women had to go out every day, too. They collected roots, fruit and grass. One day, more than 10.000 years ago, a woman dropped some grass seeds. She dropped them near a riverbank. To her surprise, they grew, and the first wheat was born which was later used to make bread.

The idea grew, too. Women planted roots and fruit trees. Then they could stay at home, do their housework, look after their children and their animals. Historians think that women kept the first domestic animals. Then, their husbands didn't have to go hunting for meat. They stayed at home. They built villages and cities. Men began civilization after women had invented agriculture.

Many experts believe there are too many people in the world. Unless there are big changes in the way people think about the number of children they should have, the world's population will double in 25 years. There will be more than 20 cities with populations greater than 20 million. Now there is only one. People may not have enough food and a lot may die of starvation and diseases.

Some people point to countries such as Australia and say, "There is plenty of room there". Although most of Australia is unpopulated and much of it is tiny populated. There are Another major problem we shall have to face, as the world's population grows, is a shortage of energy. We are using up coal and oil and when they have been used up, we shall have to find something to take their place. it's true that we can make electricity from the heat of the sun and moving water, but don't yet have the technology to do this in a big way. Perhaps, the biggest problem we shall have when the world's population doubles will be pollution. The air we breathe is already badly polluted. Although there are great efforts to control the population increase, it is difficult to make sure that it will be controlled in the near future.

2- Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

In today's society there are winners, and there are losers. Human beings by nature are competitive, it's in our nature to always compete with others, even on a subconscious level, no matter how trivial the matter. What's the difference between a winner and a loser- it's not about outcome, because winners can technically lose and still be winners; but what are the differences in character and in their actions?

Winners are able to change their situation and become independent by being responsible for their own lives. They don't blame others for their mistakes. They do their own thinking, they listen to others, evaluate what they say, and then they make up their minds. Although they may fail at times, yet they keep self-confidence. Winners overcome their bad experiences. They enjoy work, play, food and the world of nature. They freely enjoy themselves but they can postpone it if duty calls.

Losers, on the other hand, never learn to take responsibility for their own lives. There are many reasons why people can become losers: disease, poor nutrition, cruelty, unhappy relationships and bad experiences. These can interfere with the normal progress towards becoming a winner. But whereas winners fight these situations, losers hang on to them, and use them as excuses. Losers usually feel anxious, unhappy and bored. They are afraid to try new things and often repeat their own mistakes again and again. Losers spend their lives waiting for something wonderful to happen to save them from their problems with their lives but never try to change.

A. Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

- When winners fail at times, they
a. never keep their self-confidence b. are afraid to try new things
c. never repeat their own mistakes d. spend their time waiting
- Losers are people who
a. overcome their bad experiences b. blame others for their mistakes
c. learn to take responsibility d. try to change
- Winners can change their own lives by

a. Being irresponsible b. Hanging on to difficult situation
c. Being afraid of new things d. Self-confidence
- The word "postpone" can be replaced by
a. put forward b. put off c. carry out d. worked on
- The main idea of the passage according to the writer is
a. The difference between a winner and a loser is determined by society.
b. Some people can move their lives forward, and others can't achieve anything in life.
c. There is a competition between people some lose and some always win.
d. Some people want everything and always seek for success.

2- Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer: (8 marks)

Football or soccer, which is considered to be the most popular sport in the world, is a team sport played between two teams of eleven players using a spherical ball. The object of the game, which is played on a wide rectangular field with a goal on each end of the field, is to score by putting the ball into the adversary's goal. A goalkeeper who is allowed, except for other players, to use his/her hands in the game keeps the goal. The winners are those who score the most goals. If the football match ends in a draw the two teams may be redirected to play extra time and/or penalty shootouts (each team taking turns to asset number of kicks at the goal).

The way football is played now was first codified in England. Nowadays, it is governed by the FIFA "Federation Internationale de Football Association" (International Federation of Association Football). The game is played now all over the world and competitions are organized nationally, continentally and internationally. The most prestigious of football competitions is the World Cup, which is held every four years. Playing soccer just for fun can be done in backyards, streets or on the beaches. All you need is a ball. Soccer can also be a great sport for kids who may not have high levels of athletic ability, but who would like to participate in team sports. Soccer is ideal for boys, girls, men and women, who play the same game under the same rules and where physically appropriate may play alongside each other.

Learners of foreign languages are divided into three categories. Some learners are not aware of the correct structure of the sentence. They do not care about the parts of speech that constitute the sentence. They do not know what a noun, an adjective, an adverb, a verb, a pronoun or a preposition are. Moreover, they do not know how to use and where to put them in a sentence. For example, if you ask a student what part of speech " early " is in the following: "He has an early start." They may mistake a noun for a verb , an adjective for an adverb or a pronoun for a preposition.

While some learners focus on memorizing vocabulary. They keep them by heart, but they can not use them in a context. Those learners do not pay attention to the derivatives that help them memorize new vocabulary easily and quickly. Using vocabulary in context and memorizing them with derivatives make them last for a long time. The last category is the learners who learn a foreign language as a subject not a language. They find great difficulty learning it.

Egypt's Decent Life initiative "Hayah Karima" aims at providing a better life for more than half the country's population . President A1-Sisi earlier said that "the Egyptian countryside will be transformed in three years' time. The initiative aims at improving standards of living infrastructure and services and targets 58 percent of Egypt's population .The UN considers this initiative to be one of the best in applying programs for sustainable development worldwide, based on international standards for fighting poverty and gender equality . The Decent Life initiative dates back to 2019 when the ministry of Social Solidarity was put in charge of developing Egypt's poorest 1,000 villages where 10 percent of the population was living below the poverty line. Out of the initial 1,000 villages, 143 in 11 governorates became part of the project's pilot phase that is now 96 percent complete. Work on the 143.village pilot phase, covering an estimated 4.5 million citizens , A1-Sisi decided to expand the initiative to include all the country's 4.658 villages. The budget of the Decent Life initiative is estimated at LE 700 billion .

It is worth mentioning that this initiative has contributed to modifying the negative impacts of COVID 19 through improving the standards of living conditions of the most in need groups. The goals of this initiative are to be achieved through providing decent housing, providing water and sanitation for deprived families, providing medical and educational services, and establishing micro- projects for those most in need.

(2) Read the following passage , then answer the questions :

You don't need to look back twenty years to realize the tremendous developments in science and technology and how these advances are changing the lifestyle of millions of people all over the world. Although the TV and video were there in those days, no one had heard then of those wonderful remote control units that turn the equipment on and off helping us to choose our entertainment with the least physical effort.

There are many other effects of technology that made our life more comfortable. You no longer worry about washing the dishes; your dish washing machine can take care of that. If you want a hot meal, you just pop your food into the microwave oven. Passenger planes fly non-stop to different parts of the world and their pilots can find time to relax as the computers do most of the hard work for them. This all leaves people more time to enjoy themselves and it also explains the remarkable current progress in the leisure industry.

Leisure today is big business. Just read the advertisement in your newspaper. You just won't believe the variety; you will find something to fit all incomes and tastes. As robots can take over the work of people in industry, communications across the world have become faster. And while technology continues to create ways of persuading us to work less and enjoy ourselves more, so the leisure industry will play a far more important role in the lives of us all.
